I was on the fence on this purchase because of mixed reviews. I decided to purchase since I'm pretty capable with electronics/technology as well as crafting of all sorts. I had a ton of project ideas before I had even received the cricut maker. Needless to say, I was super excited when it arrived. Shipping was fast, great. Packaging was top notch. It was shipped in a box, inside a box, inside another box, inside an even bigger box. The unboxing and set up was uneventful. I was attempting to pair the cricut maker with my iPad and that is where the problems began. The maker would disconnect from my iPad while going through the set up and the app that was downloaded was freezing up. I had to log out and in several times. Although the set up was rather rough, I kept my spirts up and continued on to making the project included with the maker. Again there were problems. The maker was not recognizing the blade was installed at all. Finally, after a short break I had to take because I would've lost it, the blade was recognized on its own. I didn't do anything to it. The first part of the project that requires the use of a fine point pen worked without

I LOVE IT!

It works great. I have used it for cutting all kinds of materials. I have labeled water bottles, made iron-on logos, created my own template for a pouch, made birthday cards. I love that it has bluetooth capabilities. I only wish it came with more instructions and there doesn't seem to be a way to make your own lines for the drawing tool, have to use preset shapes, lines and designs.

Product appeared to have been opened. I did not receive the metallic pens. I only have 1 black fine tip pen. The mats were bent in half and cracked from being folded and shoved in the box. Box was also not taped shut. I may have the machine, bjt i should have received the bundle i paid for in tact and every item etc. Really disappointed.

Love it.
By Sunny Enthusiast: Welding on August 10, 2017
Color: Grey Verified Purchase

After a big sneeze struck while disassembling my phone have found no single screw missing. This pad likes to cling on the bench for its solid mass. Steel balls did it roll on it very well which is good. It is gentle and smooth to touch and not slippery. I'd keep a self healing cutting pad handy cause this pad cannot handle sharp edge well enough.

This pad can be charged up by ambient static charge and can attract dust and hold on to itself. It is good if we use it to act as a dust cleaner, which is why it "sheper" tiny parts locally so well. Bad If we want a debree free pad. Luckily I can wipe it off when done with a dry cloth without difficulty.

Best one on Amazon so far
By Fuzzhao on July 27, 2017
Color: Blue Verified Purchase
I've been purchasing many of these silicone soldering mats recently, I have 3 labs to maintain. This one is the best one I found on Amazon.

First of all, tested it with my soldering iron, durable as advertised, took the heat like a champ.
It was delivered in a sealed antistatic bag, which I found hilariously overkill, but it arrived CLEAN. The other different mat I got before came slightly dirty. So this actually kind of impressed me.

No magnets in this one, which is a GOOD thing. If I want magnets, I got a ton of magnets already, and I could choose where to put them. This mat does not force magnets where you don't want them.

And best of all, there is no Chinglish writing on it anywhere. I hate it when a product comes with inconsistent English on it (like the other mat I got).

Blue is a great colour because it contrasts with a lot of common SMD components, resistors are usually black, capacitors are usually grey or brown or sometimes white, diodes are usually black or red, so it's really

Also great as a grill mat!

By A1 Annie on July 20, 2017

Color: Grey Verified Purchase

You CAN teach an old dog a new trick! Before I even tried this as a soldering station and clean electronics station, I noticed that its heat resistant up to 932F, and FDA approved food grade silicone! What? You know those grill mats that are everywhere are only resistant up to 500F, and I've ruined some because my grill can run much hotter, especially if a little dripping grease catches fire. So I tried this mat as a grease-trap protector in my grill! First time out, I kept it under 500F, just so I don't create a worse mess, and it worked like charm. No deformation or discoloration, no burning or singeing or staining or observable damage of any kind. Easy to handle when it cooled down and a breeze to clean. Next time I grill, I'll crank it hot and see if it can take it. So far, it's already the best grill mat I've ever had :-)

This mat is just what I was looking for. It is large and gives plenty of work area. It protects the surface you are working on from getting scratched or scorched and it also protects your circuit boards etc. which often have delicate soldering on the back side. The mat also offers some cushioning for both your electronics and your hands. I love the indented compartments along the top. They are not deep but they are enough to keep small screws and parts from rolling away on you. If you are like me it also gives you a definite place to look for your pieces as I often set them off to the side and then can't find them. The blue background also helps contrast pieces that are normally lost if you are working on a dark surface. I don't solder often but it is nice to know when I do I will not damage my desk.

Very nice protective mat and perfect size for projects.

By Nikki Hamilton on August 25, 2017

Color: Navy Blue Verified Purchase

I've been thinking about getting one of these mats for some time now and I finally decided to do so when I caught my kids using the glue gun on my wooden table with nothing to protect my table. This mat is the perfect size because it has plenty of room for midsize projects and all the accessories and still have some elbow room. I was worried that it might be a little too small but actually it's a larger size than I thought. I like that it's so flexible because it rolls up pretty easily and I can just put a rubber band around it so it's easier to store. It cleaned up pretty well too which was a nice plus. The rubbery texture serves two purposes. One, it keeps it from sliding around on the table and two, it does a great job of containing little bits and pieces so they don't roll off the mat and onto the carpeting or kitchen floor where they could be easily lost. This actually makes it a really good project mat whether we're using heat or not.

Awesome Gaming Desktop!! Love it for the price and performance.

July 11, 2018

Size: 12GB RAM - 1TB HDD + 128GB SSD Verified Purchase

Super fast. For the price I think it's a steal. I also got Alienware Mouse and Keyboard with it. SSD is too fast. I played Hitman, Arma 3, Argo, Flight Simulation and GTA V in ultra mode and the GPU never went more than 65% utilization.

Happy customer.

Size: 12GB RAM - 1TB HDD + 128GB SSD Verified Purchase

My desktop came in with all the original shrink wrap around the tower. I don't know why it was sold as a refurbish unit. If you order one of these you will not get any documentation or software that is not already installed. I got a keyboard, mouse and a power cord that's it. The desktop is awesome for the price. I downloaded the AMD software for the motherboard and the video card. I would recommend doing this. Also if install the updated software for the RADEON Video card you may get a mysterious vertical red line on your videos you watch. You have to turn off demo mode in the Radeon settings. Thanks Youtube for helping me with that. It is a quiet and fast system. Go for it.

Im a web site designer + sound / video producer & audio engineer, and this computer is simply amazing for what I do. Just enough space on the ssd 128 gb for the system and my many programs, this computer is smoking fast. Came shipped with orig. dell box -looks like NASA molding, worked perfectly upon opening. Ryzen 7 octacore really shines when multitasking, I can render a video and record a new cubase project, use dreamweaver to work on a webpage, and watch a movie at the same time, with incredible speed. With 8 cores, this machine just rocks. Picture quality for graphics is unbelievable. Upgrading from an i7 based computer, there is no comparison. Great computer..Im impressed.

August 17, 2018
Size: 12GB RAM - 1TB HDD + 128GB SSD Verified Purchase

I bought this mainly due to the SSD. It didn't disappoint. The unit was spotless both inside & out. The lack of a manufactures warranty may come back and bite me but I knew that going in so I'm not deducting any stars for that. If it holds up, I got a bargain. One bonus. No bloatware. I ran System Mechanics and it found no issues. I got exactly what was described. Hard to argue with that. UPDATE: Returned today. Return was painless. Either windows or the graphics card got corrupted. Bummer. I really, really liked this computer. UPDATE 2: I have another unit. It's great just like the first one. The problem with the first unit was Logitech. My apologies to the seller.

Top-notch Quality. The solder sucker has an aluminum bronze frame and a high pressure vacuum which can remove solder from a printed circuit board effectively.

Solder Wick Braid. The desoldering wick is 2.5mm wide and 1.5m in length. Weight: 0.4oz. With low residue design, this solder braid will help clean spare solder on the pin away to avoid short circuit, especially in small,
hard to reach areas.

Pure oxygen free copper wire, no clean flux for easy to use. The solder wick can help clean some residue flux and BGA thermal bonding pad too.

Compact and Lightweight. Measuring 7.48"X0.79", the desoldering pump can be used with only one hand, either your right or left hand.

Solid Construction. The solder sucker has plastic backing to ensure stability.

Product description

Get the solder off and replace them with newer ones, which it is very common when soldering, so this desoldering removal tool will be your perfect companion to suck the solder away effectively.

Suck the Solder Away Easily

The solder sucker measures 7.48"X0.79", which will fit your hands perfectly no matter if you are left-handed or right-handed. With metal body and high pressure vacuum, this desoldering pump can help you suck the solder away effectively.

Clean the Solder in Detail

2.5mm wide, 1.5m in length and 0.4oz in weight, the solder wick can clean the solder in some small or hard to reach areas. No clean flux, oxygen free copper wire. It will be a great accessory to remove the extra solder.

How to Use the Desoldering Pump

- Step 1: Press the plunger down until it is been locked and you will hear a click;
- Step 2: Make the tip of the soldering iron to the solder joint and allow the solder to become fully liquid;
- Step 3: Move the tip of the pump next to the molten solder. Move the iron out of the way and immediately cover the liquid solder puddle with the pump's tip. Pull the trigger;
- Step 4: Repeat this process if necessary.

How to Use the Solder Wick

- Step 1: Place the wick over the solder you need remove and then just push the heated soldering iron tip onto the wick;
- Step 2: Remove the wick once the solder has been absorbed;
- Step 3: Cut off the used part of the wick;
- Step 4: Repeat this process if needed

I will use it later.
By Amazon Customer on November 16, 2017

I was not too impressed with either. The pump spring makes it tend to jump a bit which makes it hard to use in microelectronics like the raspberry pi. The wick didn't work at all the way it should. Like it was missing the needed flux.

What worked best and fastest for my needs was just using fish tank air tubing to blow the solder clean out of the hole once it was melted. This kit is not really useful for removing machine welded header pins. I'm sure I'll find some better use for it later but it missed the mark for what I bought it for.

Nice construction. Works as advertised. The "vacuum" button is the right amount of sensitivity to activate it.

But it does a good job of sucking the solder out
It works as it is supposed to, I found the trigger and plunger a little difficult to handle with one hand. But it does a good job of sucking the solder out, so I am pleased.

Worked great, feels cheap, but had no issues with it

By C. Moeller on June 21, 2017
Verified Purchase

Worked great, feels cheap, but had no issues with it. Thought the tip would melt from the heat, but didn't. Sucked the solder from old solder spots usually the first time- a couple spots had to try sucking a couple times to get it out, but 90% of them had most of the solder sucked out with no problem. The solder braid didn't really work for me, but I haven't used it before, maybe the old solder was the wrong type to be able to flow onto the wick.

Works Well. Highly Recommended.

By CleverTiger on November 22, 2017

Does exactly what it is supposed to do. Had to remove 8 large output transistors from my beloved Adcom GFA-555 amp in order to identify which had gone bad. Each had massive amounts of solder on the pins and there was no way that they were coming out without a solder sucker. This little guy did the trick. The wick that came with it worked well for some final cleaning.

I am a retired tech, have received, and tested this solder sucker. I have used many of these over the years and this one works as expected. If you want to test it or the one you use now just push down the piston and place a finger over the end of the sucker. Release the piston and see if it holds vacuum. The piston will travel about ¾ of its travel then stop if the vacuum holds. This one does that so it work just fine. Thank You

It worked like a champion

By William C. on October 3, 2017

It worked like a champion, I removed a variable resistor from a printed board. Without the solder sucker it would have been almost impossible to remove plus the possibility of damaging the board. I highly recommend this company and the solder sucker for your use.

It works

By Les D on June 19, 2017
Verified Purchase

It works. For the price it's not bad. However, for my hand, the tube diameter is too small. The force need to recharge is high and the length of push seems to be excessive. However, for the price, it's not a bad deal.

Solder sucker worked incredibly well, with lots of suction. Very pleased; especially considering the very low price. Didn't really get a chance to use the solder wick because sucker worked so well.

- Top-notch Quality. The solder sucker has an aluminum bronze frame and a high pressure vacuum which can remove solder from a printed circuit board effectively.
- Solder Wick Braid. The desoldering wick is 2.5mm wide and 1.5m in length. Weight: 0.4oz. With low residue design, this solder braid will help clean spare solder on the pin away to avoid short circuit, especially in small, hard to reach areas.
- Pure oxygen free copper wire, no clean flux for easy to use. The solder wick can help clean some residue flux and BGA thermal bonding pad too.
- Compact and Lightweight. Measuring 7.48"X0.79", the desoldering pump can be used with only one hand, either your right or left hand.
- Solid Construction. The solder sucker has plastic backing to ensure stability.

Product description

Get the solder off and replace them with newer ones, which it is very common when soldering, so this desoldering removal tool will be your perfect companion to suck the solder away effectively.

Suck the Solder Away Easily

The solder sucker measures 7.48"X0.79", which will fit your hands perfectly no matter if you are left-handed or right-handed. With metal body and high pressure vacuum, this desoldering pump can help you suck the solder away effectively.

Clean the Solder in Detail

2.5mm wide, 1.5m in length and 0.4oz in weight, the solder wick can clean the solder in some small or hard to reach areas. No clean flux, oxygen free copper wire. It will be a great accessory to remove the extra solder.

How to Use the Desoldering Pump

- Step 1: Press the plunger down until it is been locked and you will hear a click;
- Step 2: Make the tip of the soldering iron to the solder joint and allow the solder to become fully liquid;
- Step 3: Move the tip of the pump next to the molten solder. Move the iron out of the way and immediately cover the liquid solder puddle with the pump's tip. Pull the trigger;
- Step 4: Repeat this process if necessary.

How to Use the Solder Wick

- Step 1: Place the wick over the solder you need remove and then just push the heated soldering iron tip onto the wick;
- Step 2: Remove the wick once the solder has been absorbed;
- Step 3: Cut off the used part of the wick;
- Step 4: Repeat this process if needed

I used these, a cardboard box (the one these came in), and some tape to create my own soldering filter fan with small house fan that I had laying around. It seems to do the job just fine, so I saved a bit of money.

- Top-notch Quality. The solder sucker has an aluminum bronze frame and a high pressure vacuum which can remove solder from a printed circuit board effectively.
- Solder Wick Braid. The desoldering wick is 2.5mm wide and 1.5m in length. Weight: 0.4oz. With low residue design, this solder braid will help clean spare solder on the pin away to avoid short circuit, especially in small, hard to reach areas.
- Pure oxygen free copper wire, no clean flux for easy to use. The solder wick can help clean some residue flux and BGA thermal bonding pad too.
- Compact and Lightweight. Measuring 7.48"X0.79", the desoldering pump can be used with only one hand, either your right or left hand.
- Solid Construction. The solder sucker has plastic backing to ensure stability.

Product description

Get the solder off and replace them with newer ones, which it is very common when soldering, so this desoldering removal tool will be your perfect companion to suck the solder away effectively.

Suck the Solder Away Easily

The solder sucker measures 7.48"X0.79", which will fit your hands perfectly no matter if you are left-handed or right-handed. With metal body and high pressure vacuum, this desoldering pump can help you suck the solder away effectively.

Clean the Solder in Detail

2.5mm wide, 1.5m in length and 0.4oz in weight, the solder wick can clean the solder in some small or hard to reach areas. No clean flux, oxygen free copper wire. It will be a great accessory to remove the extra solder.

How to Use the Desoldering Pump

- Step 1: Press the plunger down until it is been locked and you will hear a click;
- Step 2: Make the tip of the soldering iron to the solder joint and allow the solder to become fully liquid;
- Step 3: Move the tip of the pump next to the molten solder. Move the iron out of the way and immediately cover the liquid solder puddle with the pump's tip. Pull the trigger;
- Step 4: Repeat this process if necessary.

How to Use the Solder Wick

- Step 1: Place the wick over the solder you need remove and then just push the heated soldering iron tip onto the wick;
- Step 2: Remove the wick once the solder has been absorbed;
- Step 3: Cut off the used part of the wick;
- Step 4: Repeat this process if needed

I will use it later.

By Amazon Customer on November 16, 2017

Verified Purchase

I was not too impressed with either. The pump spring makes it tend to jump a bit which makes it hard to use in microelectronics like the raspberry pi. The wick didn't work at all the way it should. Like it was missing the needed flux.

What worked best and fastest for my needs was just using fish tank air tubing to blow the solder clean out of the hole once it was melted. This kit is not really useful for removing machine welded header pins. I'm sure I'll find some better use for it later but it missed the mark for what I bought it for.

Worked great, feels cheap, but had no issues with it. Thought the tip would melt from the heat, but didn't. Sucked the solder from old solder spots usually the first time- a couple spots had to try sucking a couple times to get it out, but 90% of them had most of the solder sucked out with no problem. The solder braid didn't really work for me, but I haven't used it before, maybe the old solder was the wrong type to be able to flow onto the wick.

Works Well. Highly Recommended.

By CleverTiger on November 22, 2017

Does exactly what it is supposed to do. Had to remove 8 large output transistors from my beloved Adcom GFA-555 amp in order to identify which had gone bad. Each had massive amounts of solder on the pins and there was no way that they were coming out without a solder sucker. This little guy did the trick. The wick that came with it worked well for some final cleaning.

I am a retired tech, have received, and tested this solder sucker. I have used many of these over the years and this one works as expected. If you want to test it or the one you use now just push down the piston and place a finger over the end of the sucker. Release the piston and see if it holds vacuum. The piston will travel about 3/4 of its travel then stop if the vacuum holds. This one does that so it work just fine. Thank You

It worked like a champion, I removed a variable resistor from a printed board. Without the solder sucker it would have been almost impossible to remove plus the possibility of damaging the board. I highly recommend this company and the solder sucker for your use.

It works. For the price it's not bad. However, for my hand, the tube diameter is too small. The force need to recharge is high and the length of push seems to be excessive. However, for the price, it's not a bad deal.

LOVE this machine. Great quality and perfect for my home business!

Comment 3 people found this helpful. Was this review helpful to you? Report abuseAwesome workhorse!By Bridgid on May 30, 2012

I have had my Janome 11k for 4 years and beyond regular servicing, it has not been out of my sight. Sometimes I run it for 8 hours a day and still no problems. It is easy to use, has a large computerized screen, excellent lighting, and a variety of hoops. Because Janome uses a robotic arm on the back side, to move the hoop as you embroider, you don't have a massive embroidery unit to the side. This also makes threading it easier. Bobbins can be wound as you sew. It's very easy to switch from embroidery mode to regular sewing and, wow!, does it have power! The machine has many built-in stitches for regular sewing, too. Designs can be transferred to the machine from your computer directly or by USB stick or memory card (like a camera's), and there are built-in designs, as well. Designs can be edited on the machine. The only drawback I have encountered is the size of the largest hoop. Some of the other machines have larger hoops. Really, I just can't say enough good stuff about this embroidery machine. It's tough and fast and dependable, and sews smoothly, without tension problems or skipped/mangled stitches. Less time with the technician means more time for fun and more money to buy fabric and thread!

Comment 74 people found this helpful. Was this review helpful to you? Report abuseI am a very satisfied Janome userBy Amazon Customer on April 16, 2016

I am a very satisfied Janome user. I bought a used Memory Craft 11000, and updated it to version 3.0 (when you update to version 2.0, the machine "becomes" an SE model) for about 1/5 the cost of a new machine. I do a lot of troubleshooting myself, and my local sewing machine shop does any repair and maintenance. I had wanted this machine for ages, and settled for less a couple of times. Now that I have it, I am doing a lot of embroidery including machine applique t-shirts and quilting.

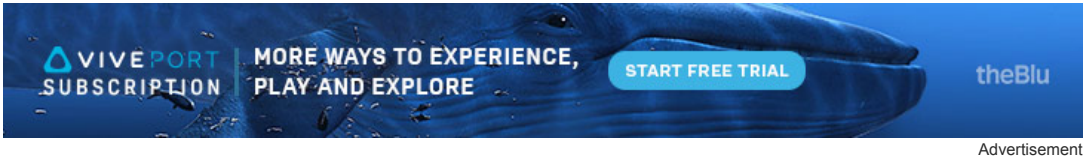

If you want to use the ~8 x 11" Macro Hoop, I would suggest getting Embrilliance Essentials and Enthusiast (you HAVE to have Enthusiast to get the ability to split designs for the Macro Hoop). I would suggest adding the other modules as time (and money) allows, if this is something that you want to spend some time on, especially the lettering software. Embrilliance has excellent product support. There's a Facebook page which is populated with lots of experienced users that know the software well, a support forum at embrilliance.com, and ticket support. The developer has answered a question or two when I have supported tickets.

This machine also sews superbly. I sold my Babylock Esante BLN because it didn't sew half as well as this machine does.

If you solder, you should use this high quality product to protect your health.
By Fair Review on January 30, 2016
Verified Purchase
I purchased this for my daughter while she had some interest in electronics. For quite some time I have used Hakko products in industrial fabrication (Light duty soldering and desoldering). This appears to be the same thing we have at work and removes smoke effortlessly. These types of products are really "you get what you paid for". For safety, this type of device should always be used when soldering. Hakko is a very good Japanese product and it is the benchmark for soldering related equipment.

Works really well for a small unit
By Pete Brown on December 28, 2011
Verified Purchase
I've been soldering an analog synthesizer project with a really dense board, and got tired of inhaling all the nasty fumes. I finally sprung for one of these. I was nervous about getting one as I've read tons of bad reviews about desktop smoke absorbers.

If your expectations are in line with reality for a small bench top unit, then you'll like this fan.

Specifically, you'll need to solder the board right in front of the fan. On a big board (the synth board is about the size of a mini ATX), you'll need to turn the board so the part being soldered is within a few inches of the front of the fan. Unless you get an industrial quality hood, or something like you'd see over a kitchen stove, or even a small enclosed structure like my pain booth, any fan you get is going to work like that. I personally like the freedom of having this on my bench as a small unit as opposed to a large installation or a respirator.

If you have a really cheap iron, the airflow may cool the tip as stated in other reviews. That's not the absorber's fault, though.

Nothing spectacular- research the cost of an OEM mount before you purchase this absorber
By Mike on June 21, 2016
Verified Purchase
Sort of works. You have to keep it within about 6 inches of your project in order for it to actually draw the vapors away. I assume that the filter does it's job but would probably need some high tech equipment to test how much of the harmful materials are getting caught in the filter and how much gets through. The main problem I have with this item is the lack of a reasonably priced mount. Since I work on under a microscope that is elevated setting this absorber at desk top level does not allow it to perform properly. Unless you are working on a flat surface you will need something that this can be attached to. Hakko wants over $150 for the desk mount. Seriously, the mount costs twice as much as the absorber. For that price I will have one custom made for my work bench.

I like it, it's fairly quite and solid construction

By SemperFi 77-98 on April 13, 2016
Verified Purchase

I like it, it's fairly quite and solid construction. It needs to be fairly close to your work, it is not overly powerful. I do leaded stained glass, some very large pieces at times, so I find I am constantly moving it close to the area I am soldering on big projects. I bought this because I started seeing a correlation between big solder jobs and very intense headaches the day after. Since I started using this fan I have a big reduction in the intensity of these headaches or none at all the next day. For me it was worth the investment. My stained glass supplier has them for sale, but this was a better deal.

Works great and the build quality is very good. The feature that sets this one apart from other fans is the horizontal operating mode which really does a great job at pulling smoke away from the work area. Recommended.

Does the job well!

By Michael Weber on May 2, 2017
Verified Purchase

This is a really well-build, stable unit that has an effective fan that, in my desktop setup, sucks in the fumes from about 8" away. The fan produces noise but that cannot be avoided and it's not any noisier than a SMT rework station. It's more expensive than other units but I think it's well worth the money.

Works great for extracting solder smoke from our repair benches

By Michael Nagy Jr on June 1, 2017
Verified Purchase

Works great for extracting solder smoke from our repair benches, but it is a little loud. We are ok with its function and would buy it again, but if there was a quieter option we would definitely switch to that.

Use your brain people, you can make one better for half the price!

All this is, is a low quality can with a cheap dollar store charcoal filter on it sold for 10x what it's worth.

Works great. You do have to get close to the work. But for the money it is great.

I'm very happy with this purchase, lots of colors, all different! No duplicate colors. Each color is labeled with a sticker. I did have to use a magic marker to write the color code on the bottom because the stickers do fall off very easily. However over all satisfaction is great!

Much less expensive than brother brand that sells for $5.50 a spool

By Dale L. Harper on December 21, 2016

Verified Purchase

Love the colors. They work great on my brother pacesetter embroidery machine. I do have to watch the thread carefully BC it sometimes wants to wrap around the end of the spool...and then my needle breaks. I don't know that this is the threads problem however.

Great thread for a great price!

By Charlotte B. on September 5, 2016

I have only used a couple colors so far but it's been great! No freying, no tangles, nice and shiny and smooth. I mostly embroider on vinyl and have not had any issue.

All I can say for this price you can not beat this with a stick the quality is awesome I have a Baby Lock Alliance one needle and I got some thread where I bought my machine but it's so expensive for no reason, so I went to Amazon and looked around and seen this one to be honest I thought it was the big spools and it wasn't but I was still happy you get some many colors, you get black and white bobbin thread and a sheet that list all the colors you have I'm new at all this but i'm real familiar with it all I just never gotten my hands dirty until now and it's so much fun P.S. Enjoy

Was expecting larger cones like the ones i previously ordered

By Amazon Customer on October 21, 2016

Verified Purchase

Was expecting larger cones like the ones i previously ordered. Now i see that a different vendor shipped the order. Answers the question on why the cones are different. I recently was using one of the cones to embroider an item for my grandson and during the stitch out, the cone began having a problem, the thread was catching on a "burn spot" of the thread on the cone. We ended up unwinding approximately half of the thread from the cone to continue the embroidery design. I hope as i use the other cones that they are do not have flaws or burns on them. I will definitely be watching more closely from now on.

Good but not perfect

By Amazon Customer on May 4, 2016

Verified Purchase

These are exactly what they say they are and the price is good. However, the one thing missing on these spools is the thread holder at the bottom or a notch so you can catch the thread so it doesn't unwind. That would make this an outstanding product.

When I received this item I was so excited until I opened the box and found out that about ten of the colors were not the same size. The spools were suppose to have 1100 feet on each, but instead those had half that amount. I'm still happy with.

So far, the thread that I have used are doing well, no breakage yet. Concerned on two colors that weren't quite the color it should have been (red and orange). They are okay with me, using them on my Fall designs. Thank you for the good variety of colors.

APC Back-UPS Pro Compact Tower 850VA UPS Battery Backup/Surge Protector (BX850M)

Reliable power protection for critical devices in the home or for small businesses.

The APC Back-UPS Pro Compact Tower provides quality power protection in a smaller, lighter design. An APC Uninterruptible Power Supply (UPS) protects your valuable equipment and data, keeps you connected during blackouts, and increases the usable life of your electronics. The APC Back-UPS Pro Compact Tower series guarantees certainty and peace of mind in a connected world.

Battery Backup for Critical Equipment

The new BX850M offers long battery backup runtime for your critical devices during a blackout (see chart below). When a power outage or fluctuation occurs, you can continue to work on a PC and access the network. The BX850M gives you time to save your work and safely shut down electronics in cases of extended outage.

Guaranteed protection and battery backup power

Smaller & Lighter Design for Easy Installation

Smaller and lighter than ever before, the new Compact Tower models provide convenient installation and use. Expect the same Back-UPS Pro quality of power protection and features, but in a more convenient form factor.

Features 8 power protection outlets with 4 outlets

Automatic Voltage Regulation & Surge Protection

In regions with poor power quality, it is quite common for the power to fluctuate widely without actually going out. The BX850M UPS protects connected devices from dangerous surges or spikes in voltage. Automatic Voltage Regulation (AVR) technology maintains consistent safe voltage conditions without draining the battery,

Valuable Features and Reliability in a Smaller and Lighter Design

Long Runtime Battery: Keeps you connected by powering critical devices (computers, wireless networking devices, gaming consoles, security systems and other electronics) during a blackout.

APFC Compatibility: Ensures electronics that have active PFC power requirements will not unexpectedly shut down when switching from utility power to battery power during an outage.

1GB Network Dataline Surge Protection: Prevents dangerous surges traveling along datalines from damaging your equipment.

Hot Swappable and User Replaceable Battery: Allows user to easily and quickly exchange the UPS batteries and without having to turn it off, keeping the equipment protected at all times.

LCD Interface: Provides quick and easy information on the utility and UPS status.

Energy Star Rated for Efficiency: The certification ensures that products are independently certified as highly energy efficient, which will save money year after year.

3-Year Warranty: This UPS is covered by a three-year limited warranty. It also comes with a lifetime equipment protection policy.

This powers my 350W amplifier, a PC with a 600W power supply and two video cards, and a laptop for about 15 minutes. (300W constant draw) Lessen the load, and it'll run forever!! It takes over 8 hours to recharge when drawn all the way down. Overall, I'm very impressed with this products capabilities!

I am using this to back up my Panasonic Plasma TV, Home Theater System, DVD and CD players.

I have been using this for a little over a month now and have not had any power outages. I have simulated a power outage and it performed well.

I am rating this as 5 stars to give the benefit of doubt to the product. If the product does not work as intended during an actual power outage, I will update my rating accordingly.

GREAT UPS FOR OUR SERVER STATION. We have had one of these for a couple of years now on our server and it has worked perfectly since we bought it. So, when it came time to replace one elsewhere on the network it was a no brainer to buy another one of these. :)

Fully Satisfied! Great For Office/Home Theater, Easy Setup, Free Software, USB Data

Connection

Size: 1500VA / 900W Vine Customer Review of Free Product (What's this?)

The BX1500M is the newer and greener version of the BR1500G. Except for power savings and electronics to survive some brown-outs without kicking in the battery it's pretty much the same unit. I have used APC USB products for clients in my IT practice for decades. The BX1500M is a good office or home theater UPS and I'm completely satisfied.

This UPS is powering my cable modem, firewall, and switch and WiFi access point in addition to a Dell Precision tower workstation and monitor. With all this stuff connected I get about almost 20 minutes of run time before the batteries go. Knowing this I setup the free APC Powerchute software to perform a system shutdown of the Dell after 10 minutes on battery. This is perfect as most power outages here are mere seconds in duration.

After the Dell shuts down my network connection stays up for quite a while. Power usage of all the network bits is under 50W and my laptop, tablets and phone can stay connected to the network for quite a while using their own batteries. Nice!

Very solid unit up front, long term I am very skeptical due to prior experience with a similar model from Schneider - see below.

By Grits VINE VOICE on July 26, 2017

Size: 1500VA / 900W Vine Customer Review of Free Product (What's this?)

This is the second such unit we've owned from this company (slightly different, VERY slightly upgraded power capability). Essentially, it appears to be about the same as the earlier unit. It is stable, it protected against multiple power flickers in the past few days (as did the old one while it worked for several years), with not so much as a glitch at all in the on-line computer. Read the features, benefits and specs for this unit, and this appears to be meeting what's advertised, as did our first one. Obviously there are some measurements we're incapable of measuring, but in terms of protection, we've already seen flawless handling of power surges and flickers, and that's what counts at least in the short run.

So why not a 5-star rating? I simply can't, due to the previous unit's battery life and the run-around I got from customer service. Yes, they eventually refunded the supposedly non-refundable battery I got as a replacement after that seemed to be the issue (it was over three years old, but not yet five years old). Tech support initially agreed it was a battery issue, tried to sell me the WRONG battery for the unit, but fortunately I caught the difference in the picture vs. the actual unit battery.

I did buy it again - I have two now - great product - worth the money

By V. Finch on May 19, 2017

Size: 1350VA / 810W Verified Purchase

I bought this for my living room home entertainment setup. My tv is over my fireplace and the power outlet is behind the TV. There is a conduit in the wall for my coax/HDMI - so my cable box is in the corner of my living room - away from the TV. We occasionally have power flickers during storms and I didn't want to ruin my LG TV/Soundbar. I bought some electrical cord and fished it through the HDMI conduit and put proper ends on each end - then ran it into the APC. Now my TV/Soundbar never flicker during a storm. I've also got my cable box going into it so it is protected. I liked how this worked so much that I put a second one in my

From the manufacturer

Product description

Size: Pack 1

The Hakko CHP 170 micro soft-wire cutter has an 8mm long jaw set at a 21-degree angle for flush-cutting terminal wires up to 16 gauge (1.3mm). The tool is constructed of 2.5mm heat-treated carbon steel that provides durability and long life. Precision-ground holes and surfaces provide smooth movement. Nonslip hand grips provide comfort and control, and a dolphin-style curved fore-edge protects hands from cutting surfaces. An internal spring returns the tool to the open position, reducing operator fatigue. Parkerized surfaces prevent glare and increase corrosion resistance.

American Hakko Products manufactures soldering and desoldering tools. The company, founded in 1984, is headquartered in Valencia, CA.

Great tool for the price. Prime shipping was very fast. Would buy again.

By Kenny Johnson on March 5, 2015
Size: Pack 1 Verified Purchase

These cutters are excellent at the $5 price point. I purchased one to add to my at-home vaping tool kit, and a second pair for my electronics repair tool kit. After about a month of use, these are points to consider when purchasing this product. To help in deciding to purchase I have added photos for you to see the product up close.

Pros:
At $5 dollars, you can't beat the price.
The handles are non-slip rubber/plastic without being to sticky, doesn't attract dust or dirt.
The handles protect your palm when cutting, softening the feel when applying cutting pressure.
The blades are hard metal, and after a month show no nicking or bending. (see picture)
The blades are at enough of an angle to get close when cutting without blocking your view.
Warnings on handles reminds you to ALWAYS WEAR EYE PROTECTION and CUT WIRE MAX THICKNESS 1.3 mm
Spring back handles feel firm and just right for repeated cuts

Good choice for everyday use.

By B. Jones on June 29, 2016
Size: Pack 1 Verified Purchase

Well made and comfortable to hold. These are not as robust as much more expensive cutters, but they are great for everyday electronics and jewelry work. I have to replace my cutters every few years, it seems, and the price on these is perfect for that situation. It seems like no matter how careful I think I'm being, I always end up at some point cutting some piece of hardened steel and nicking the jaws of my cutters. I do this to more expensive cutters, too, so it seems like a better choice to get inexpensive, well made cutters rather than shell out twenty bucks for top quality cutters. I bought two pair so I'm all set for several years to come.

Loose hinge pin and the jaws don't line up on 2 new pairs.

By Invalid Entry on November 24, 2017
Size: Pack 1 Verified Purchase

These used to be great, but either the manufacturer's tooling or QA have gone downhill in the last several months. Maybe it's time to rebuild some of the machines?

On the last ones I ordered, the hinged is slightly loose, and the jaws don't line up properly (which kind of defeats the purpose of a flush cutter if you ask me). Amazon sent a replacement, and it had the same problems. 2 of the pictures are my old ones purchased ~11mo ago and used (not abused) consistently since. I'd say which 2, but Amazon reorders them. Anyways, you can probably guess which are the new ones.

Amazingly clean cut!

By johnson on January 26, 2017
Size: Pack 1 Verified Purchase

For the money these snips exceeded all of my expectations. We previously we using professional grade snips and honestly we thought they were great. We wanted to get a spare set each so we found these and bought two. After using them I was blown away at what we paid for the professional grade snips because these make a far better, much cleaner cut. If your still undecided about buying, rest assured these will certainly do the job. We use them for cutting sterling, 14k, and gold filled wire mostly (we're jeweler's) but I believe these will accommodate your needs for just about anything.

Feels well made! My go-to tool for small electronics repairs.

By Michael Hurt on October 18, 2016
Size: Pack 1 Verified Purchase

Seriously, this is the absolute best cutter I've ever used. I commonly work on small electronics, and have always used just the cutters from the typical mini pliers sets that you get at Home Depot and Lowes. This thing blows them out of the water for quality and how well it does the job. I can cleanly cut even the tiniest of electronic components mounted to the board for quick and easy removal. I can't believe they sell these this cheaply! I'd pay double for this tool. The build quality feels great, and it feels like you paid a lot for it.

It's a flush cutter and it works well

Really enjoy using these little snippers. They don't have a retaining finger to stop clipped leads from flying but that's not a detriment. Read more

Works well, but blade looks a bit misaligned. But anyway the iFixit flush cutter also had that misaligned blade look when the cutter is closed tightly. I guess it can't be helped, since the sharp points have to be thin for the cutter to cut.

The cutted surface of wire looks pretty flat and flush. (well that's what all flush cutter do, flat on one side and snipped look on other side)

Feels good in hand.

Overall a recommended purchase.

Ah well because of the blades that goes misaligned when you squeeze it hard, this doesn't cut female fan header pins off a strip well. You can't cut wide metal strips with this. Only wire shaped stuff. Also the tightness isn't adjustable, which is a minus for me. If it is adjustable then there is a chance that it can cut those wide metal strips.

Clip Clip.... Snip Snip

By Lee on February 9, 2016

Size: Pack 1 Verified Purchase

At first I asked myself why I would need wire cutters like this when I had so many other tools in my tool-chest. But I am really glad I purchased these on the recommendation of a friend when I started to get into building my own Arduino and Raspberry Pi projects.

There is no way that any of my other tools would have been able to have clipped or snipped the excess leads of wires when I was done working in the small spaces as these do. They are a joy to work with since the handles are a soft, grippy rubber, and the action is nice and smooth.

If you don't have a pair of wire cutters yet in your tool set, get these!

Great cutters, iffy spring

By Michael on December 28, 2014

Size: Pack 1 Verified Purchase

These wire cutters have worked well for me so far. The handles feel nice, and they cut the wire flat on one side which is great for me since I need precise cuts when I'm making jewelry. I use them for half-hard sterling silver and the blades haven't even begun to show wear even though I've used them quite a bit since getting them two weeks ago. The only problem I have with them is the spring-open, which is just a small metal wire that pushes the handles apart. It seems somewhat fragile, and they already don't spring open quite as well as they did when they first arrived. Other than that, no complaints. Shipping was on time, overall I'm very satisfied.
